Daytime bus shooting 'scary'

16-year-old charged.
Teen fight leads to gunfire on transit: Police

HALEY RYAN

haley.ryan@metronews.ca

A daytime shooting on a Metro Transit bus in Dartmouth is being called both "brazen" and "concerning" by police.

Just before 1 p.m. Thursday, Halifax Regional Police were called to Pinecrest Drive in Dartmouth after a report of shots being fired on the No. 72 Portland Hills bus.

"It's extremely concerning," said police spokesman Const. Pierre Bourdages. "You're talking about an act that was very brazen ... in broad daylight, on a travelling bus. There were four (other) passengers on board but there could have easily been more than that."

Police say three teenagers

Caught on camera

"If you commit a crime on board transit or at one of its terminals, you will be caught on camera."

HRM spokesperson Michaelyn Thompson

on the bus got into a verbal dispute and started fighting. The bus pulled over in the 100 block of Pinecrest Drive and one of the teens began shooting. No one was hurt.

All three teens got off the bus and ran away, police say.

Nakita Nicholas lives on Pinecrest Drive and said it was "scary" that something like this could happen on a bus.

"I feel kind of sketchy," Nicholas said.

A 16-year-old male was taken into custody at a Dartmouth home around 4:30 p.m., and by late Thursday evening police alleged he was the shooter and charged him with various firearm offences.

He is scheduled to appear in Halifax youth court on Friday.

Police are still looking to track down the other two individuals. They are described as a white male youth and a black female youth, both aged 16 to 17.

Bourdages said the suspect was taken into custody after reviewing the camera tape on-board the bus.

"That's the great thing about Metro Transit ... every bus is equipped with very-high-quality video, inside and out," Bourdages said.

"Reviewing these will be invaluable in actually determining what happened."

Strong winds. Major snowstorm slated for weekend

A major winter storm is expected to hit Nova Scotia starting overnight on Friday, bringing strong winds and about 30 centimetres of snow to the region when all is said and done.

Paula Sutherland, Environment Canada meteorologist, said on Thursday that HRM should see anywhere between 25 and 30 centimetres of snow, which is the high range for the province.

"It looks like it will intensify as it tracks towards the Maritimes," Sutherland said.

She said the storm should track along the United States coast and combine with a system over the Great Lakes before hitting western parts of the province.

The storm is expected to then spread to the east of Nova Scotia throughout Saturday before moving on to Newfoundland.

On Thursday afternoon, Environment Canada issued a winter storm watch for the province, with some areas possibly exceeding 30 centimetres. They also warn of potential periods of ice pellets or freezing rain along the eastern Atlantic coast.

Sutherland said strong, northeast winds are also expected to cause blowing snow.

Michaelyn Thompson, spokesperson for HRM, said the city's winter operations group will meet Friday morning to make a plan of action based on what type of snow will fall and when to begin icing.

"It does look like it's going to be severe weather," Thompson said.

She said if families want to make an emergency plan there is information on the HRM website.

Province recharges BlackBerry facility with $10M investment

Tech talk. Money comes just days after the BlackBerry Z10 smartphone was launched in Canada

Andrew MacLeod, BlackBerry's managing director for Canada

ALY THOMSON
halifax@metronews.ca

The province has recharged BlackBerry's Bedford facility with a $10-million investment over five years following a "difficult year" for the tech giants, a company spokesman said Thursday.

Premier Darrell Dexter said the province will invest $2 million a year for five years.

Andrew MacLeod, BlackBerry's managing director for Canada, said in turn, the company will employ at least 400 people. MacLeod would not say how many people currently work at the facility, citing company policy.

BlackBerry will also invest $4 million a year to purchase new equipment, hardware and software and to conduct research and development.

Dexter said he approached BlackBerry about potential support for the company last summer after it cut 95 employees. The layoffs were part of a global reduction of 5,000 workers.

"If we wanted to have them here in Nova Scotia, the simple fact of the matter is that we're competing with other jurisdictions," said Dexter.

MacLeod said shutting down the Bedford operation was considered.

"All options were on the table," said MacLeod at a press conference in Hammond Plains, near BlackBerry's Bedford office. "We are in an incredibly competitive, dynamic environment."

"Due to the intervention of Premier Dexter, we were able to have this exciting announcement today."

Robert Bruce, a technical lead analyst for BlackBerry, said the past year has been a stressful time for employees at the Bedford facility.

"When you read stuff in the media all the time about the company you work for, you start to worry about your family and things like that," said Bruce. "I was worried just like everyone else was. All you could do really was come to work and hope we got through it."

"Now the mood has totally swung around."

When BlackBerry — then Research In Motion — opened the facility in 2008, it said it would create 1,200 high-tech jobs.

Sex-worker murder. Guilty plea possibly coming in case

Nova Scotia's Public Prosecution Service says there is "an indication" that a man accused of killing a Halifax sex worker will plead guilty in the case.

The Public Prosecution Service says 38-year-old Steven Elliot Laffin, charged with second-degree murder, is expected to be in court on Feb. 21 to set a date for sentencing.

Nadine Taylor, 29, disappeared in July 2010, but her body was never found.

In October, Laffin pleaded guilty to charges including aggravated assault, kidnapping and unlawful confinement against another sex-trade worker.

16-year-old in custody after gun fired in house

Police say a shot fired inside a Dartmouth residence on Thursday night wasn't directed at anyone.

At about 6:40 p.m., police were called to Valkyrie Crescent in Dartmouth after a gunshot went off inside a home. A 16-year-old male fled the residence before officers arrived, but was taken into custody a short time later and is believed to be the one who fired the shot.

A 16-year-old female was also inside the residence, but wasn't the target, police say.

There was no word late Thursday on any charges.

N.S. gas prices product of speculators, shortfall

Pump pain. Industry pundit says Canadian refineries need access to competitively priced product, or prices will keep climbing

RUTH DAVENPORT
ruth.davenport@metronews.ca

One petroleum industry watchdog says speculators get some of the blame for recent jumps in gas prices, but Nova Scotians will keep paying more if Canada's refining capacity doesn't improve.

"Whatever happens in North America with crude, we have to come back to simple fundamentals," said oil and gas blogger and pundit Dan McTeague on Thursday. "We don't produce enough gasoline in this country."

Nova Scotia's regulated gas prices have climbed steadily for the last three weeks despite falling demand and healthy inventory supply.

Last year, speculation about a summer fuel shortage drove a four-month rising trend, but McTeague said that's not the case this time.

"I think the market is misreading the good economic news out of the U.S. I think it's very premature and excessive," said McTeague. "My sense is that this is what you're going to see for the foreseeable future, up and down by five cents a litre."

McTeague said that, because of a shortfall in domestic product, Canadians are forced to rely on imports, which are heavily influenced by speculators and cost six to 10 cents a litre more than the speculated price.

McTeague said it's time for the federal government to "put both oars in the water" on TransCanada's East Coast pipeline, saying it could solve a multitude of problems currently driving prices up.

"We have the tale of two cities in Canada," said the former MP. "The East Coast can't get access to an affordable product and it's prepared to close refineries, and the West can't get its product to market and is prepared to scale back."

Halifax. Cop charged with sexual assault

A Halifax police officer is facing charges including sexual assault after an incident at a home last year.

Halifax Regional Police Const. Chris Mosher, 29, is charged with sexual assault and administering a noxious thing with intent to aggrieve.

The province's Serious Incident Response Team says in a statement the charges stem from incidents on Nov. 2 and 3.

The independent team says it launched an investigation after receiving a complaint

City may lose $5M in deposit-refund plan

Change. Tinkering with provincial program could cost HRM millions over next five years

HRM's deputy mayor isn't happy about a new business plan for the provincial deposit-refund program on beverage containers that would strip at least 30 per cent of the revenues from city coffers.

"They're grasping for oxygen ... (it's) absolute idiocy," said Coun. Reg Rankin during the city's environment and sustainability standing committee meeting Thursday.

The board of the Resource Recovery Fund Board has approved a business plan in response to a report showing expenses would exceed revenues by 2016.

HRM's share of the program revenues would fall by at least $1 million a year.

"It's a five-year agreement, so that's $5 million that HRM would no longer receive," solid-waste resources manager Gord Helm told the committee. "That's based on 2011-12 numbers, they could get worse ... as costs go up."

Helm said HRM has proposed cutting the consumer deposit to five cents from 10, and letting municipalities, instead of enviro depots, handle the recycling.

"As opposed to increasing the deposit to support the system that's redundant and broken, we're suggesting ... we can do it with the existing system that exists across all municipalities for less," said Helm.

HRM would make about $3 million a year under the new scenario.

Rankin said it's "bad policy" for municipalities to be forced to compete with a provincial program.

"Let's do something for the consumer, get it down to five cents, let's get the stuff into our system," he said. "That's more money for Resource Recovery to give back to us, rather than compete in a small province, it's just bad economics."

The committee is recommending writing to the provincial environment minister asking him to consider changes to the program.

Concrete, cement added to mix. Wood-first policy shelved after 'divisive' industry responses

There will be no official wood-first policy in HRM.

The city's environmental and sustainability standing committee accepted a staff recommendation Thursday to "not make a further policy recommendation" on the issue.

The Atlantic Wood Works group, a program of the Maritime Lumber Bureau, had asked HRM to implement a policy that would consider wood first as a primary construction material in future HRM construction projects.

The request prompted an immediate response from the concrete and cement industries, which staff were asked to review.

The ensuing report called the industry responses "divisive," and the discussion "not constructive."

Earlier this year Nancy Conrad, senior vice-president of the Halifax Chamber of Com-

Quote

"I would have preferred the discussion from industry to have been much more positive, I would have preferred to see each one extol their virtues rather than attack others."

Committee chair Coun. Barry Dalrymple, saying he was disappointed by the tenor of the debate merce, said that the suggestion of a wood-first policy was a "slippery slope."

"We think that the city should be ... encouraging the best procurement policies that say, 'What are the best products for this particular project,'" said Conrad.

A man was ticketed Wednesday evening after a woman was hit while walking in a crosswalk in downtown Halifax.

Halifax Regional Police say a 23-year-old woman was crossing Quinpool Road towards Harvard Street around 10 p.m. when she was hit by a Dodge Caravan.

Police say the van was making a left turn onto Quinpool from Harvard when the accident happened.

The pedestrian was knocked to the ground but was not injured.

The driver of the van, a 66-year-old man, was given a ticket for failing to yield to a pedestrian in a crosswalk. METRO

Dartmouth drug search unearths cocaine, pot, paraphernalia

A 36-year-old man is facing numerous charges after a drug search in Dartmouth Thursday night.

Police say officers searched an apartment on Highfield Park Drive around 5:45 p.m.

They say a quantity of cocaine and marijuana was seized, as well as drug paraphernalia and cash.

Police say the man resisted arrested and allegedly assaulted two police officers, although no one was injured.

Andrew Curt Wint of Dartmouth is facing charges including possession and trafficking drugs, resisting arrest and two counts of assaulting a police officer. METRO

Sub-Lt. Jeffrey Paul Delisle of Bedford arrives at Halifax provincial court for a sentencing hearing last Friday.
ANDREW VAUGHAN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

CSIS made no attempt to talk to spy, says lawyer

Decision day.
Jeffrey Delisle to be sentenced Friday

Canadian intelligence officials made no attempt to get more information from a navy spy who confessed to selling military secrets to Russia for years, said his lawyer on the eve of sentencing for Sub-Lt. Jeffrey Paul Delisle.

Mike Taylor said he was taken aback that no one from the Canadian Security Intelligence Service and other agencies expressed any interest in talking to Delisle, who pleaded guilty to funnelling classified data to Russian agents.

"I do find it surprising," Taylor said Thursday. "It just seems like a common sense perspective."

Delisle, a 41-year-old from Bedford, pleaded guilty last October to one count of breach of trust and two charges of passing information to a foreign entity that could harm Canada's interests.

Taylor said Delisle was interviewed only once by the RCMP in January 2012, when the navy officer confessed and described how he routinely smuggled sensitive information out of the secure military facilities where he worked and passed it on to the Russians through a shared email account.

After that, he says there were no overtures from CSIS, the Communications Security Establishment or National Defence to interview Delisle as he awaited trial.

Officials at National Defence refused to address the issue, only saying in an email Thursday: "We cannot comment on the substance of the investigation until the case has been concluded."

The issue of how much damage Delisle did is expected to be a key question for provincial court Judge Patrick Curran in his sentence,

Payback

Both the Crown and defence have agreed to a fine of $111,817, which was based on the amount of money Delisle collected from his Russian bosses over the years.

which is the first one to be handed down under the Security of Information Act.

Crown attorney Lyne Decarie argued over a two-day sentencing hearing that Delisle did irrevocable and severe damage to Canada's position in the international intelligence-sharing network.

She asked for a sentence of at least 20 years for communicating information to a foreign entity, and five years for the breach-of-trust charge. They would be served concurrently.

The defence is seeking a sentence of about nine to 10 years for all of the offences.

Brazeau believed to be in custody

Domestic violence?

Controversial, outspoken senator kicked out of Tory caucus amid reports he was arrested

Conservative Sen. Patrick Brazeau was turfed from his party's caucus and believed to be behind bars Thursday after a 911 call summoned police to his home to investigate a complaint of domestic violence.

Brazeau, long a prominent and polarizing figure both within Canada's aboriginal community and beyond, was swiftly removed from the Conservative caucus after police arrived at his home in Gatineau, Que., around 9 a.m.

About three hours later — with Brazeau believed to be in custody, a red police tape cordon around his house and a cruiser parked in the driveway — a letter was circulated among caucus that he was no longer a member.

"It's known that in light of the serious events that have been reported today, I have removed Sen. Brazeau from the Conservative caucus," Prime Minister Stephen Harper told the Commons.

"Our understanding is that these are matters of a personal nature rather than Senate business, but they are very serious and we expect they will be dealt with through the courts."

House Leader Peter Van Loan later confirmed in the House that Brazeau's departure was directly linked to reports of a domestic incident.

Brazeau, however, has been a thorn in the Conservative caucus' side for months, most recently over allegations that he was using other people's addresses in order to qualify for a Senate housing allowance and an aboriginal tax exemption.

Police described Brazeau's house as a crime scene, although they refused to confirm it was indeed the senator who was in custody, saying only that a man was arrested at the Gatineau address after a call to 911.

By the dinner hour Thursday, no charges had been formally laid. Police said they would keep the suspect in custody pending a possible court appearance Friday morning.

"There's no charge right now at the moment, but we will continue our investigation," said Gatineau police spokesman Pierre Lanthier.

Lanthier would not comment on the condition of the victim.

Brazeau's office said Thursday that he would remain in the Senate as independent.

Captain Kirk spaces out. Shatner chats with Canadian astronaut

There was a surreal moment in outer space Thursday, as the man who played Captain James T. Kirk chatted with a real-life astronaut aboard the International Space Station.

William Shatner, the Canadian-born actor of Star Trek fame, spoke for a few minutes with Chris Hadfield, who is currently on a five-month space voyage.

The actor asked serious questions about Hadfield's hopes for space travel, as well as his fears, and the emotions he felt as he stared out from beyond Earth. They also exchanged a few jokes. Shatner quipped that if he flopped while performing, the worst thing that could happen is he might sweat a little bit. "In your case," he told Hadfield, "you burn up."

He also asked Hadfield how he felt, being away from his home planet for so long. That prompted a philosophical reply from the astronaut about how far humanity has come since the original Star Trek era.

Hadfield responded that in the 1960s, having a phone chat with someone in outer space was the stuff of science fiction. Today, Hadfield said, it's a reality, and it helps make astronauts feel more closely connected to loved ones back home. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mr. Baird goes to Washington

Cross-border relations. Canada first on the list to meet with America's new secretary of state

John Baird will be the first foreign minister to sit down with America's newest secretary of state on Friday when he meets with John Kerry at the U.S. State Department to discuss an array of bilateral and international issues.

The two men will "discuss ways to deepen co-operation in the extensive Canada-U.S. relationship," including efforts to streamline trade and travel at the border, department spokeswoman Victoria Nuland said Thursday.

Kerry, who was officially sworn in on Wednesday, insisted that he meet first with Canada's foreign minister.

"The secretary felt very strongly that our Canadian neighbour and ally should come first," Nuland said.

In a statement, Baird said he was looking forward to working with Kerry "to find new Nuland wouldn't bite on questions about who might become America's next ambassador to Canada. Several names are being bandied about by prognosticators in Canada-U.S. circles, including that of Caroline Kennedy, the daughter of assassinated former president John F. Kennedy. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kashmir

3 arrested for intimidating all-girl rock band

Three people have been arrested in Indian-controlled Kashmir for allegedly threatening the first Kashmiri all-girl rock band, which disbanded after its debut concert following abusive comments on social media and a demand from a top Muslim cleric that they stop performing, police said Thursday.

The three have been booked for criminal intimidation and violating Internet laws, police officer Afadul Mujtaba said. If convicted, they could be jailed for up to seven years each. They were arrested Wednesday night.

The controversy over the band Pragaash, or "First Light" in Kashmiri, highlights the simmering tension between modernity and tradition in Muslim-majority Kashmir, where an armed uprising against Indian rule and a crackdown by government forces have killed more than 68,000 people since 1989.

Police are looking for at least a dozen other people whose comments were abusive. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel. Facebook helps woman beat traffic ticket

An Israeli woman has turned to Facebook to beat a parking ticket — and expose a Tel Aviv road crew.

Hila Ben Baruch says she parked her car legally near her Tel Aviv home only to find it gone and replaced with a handicapped parking sign. City hall slapped her with more than $300 US in fines. Making matters worse, she says a city representative accused her of lying when she called to complain.

Determined to prove her innocence, she obtained footage from a security camera showing municipal workers painting the handicapped symbol under her car, then towing the vehicle away.

She told Channel 2 she was "shocked." The video, put on Facebook, has gone viral.

The Tel Aviv municipality has apologized and refunded the fines. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. Boy Scouts given 14 weeks before vote to ease ban on gays

The Boy Scouts of America will be the focus of prayers, petitions and pressure tactics for the next 14 weeks as advocates on both sides of the U.S. cultural divide aim at swaying a vote on easing the ban on gays as Scouts or adult leaders.

After a campaign that promises to be as passionate and dramatic as any big election, a decision will be made the week of May 20 by the roughly 1,400 voting members of the BSA's National Council. The policy was supposed to be settled Wednesday by the Scouts'

70-member national executive board, but board members said the issue is so complex, the organization needed more time to study it.

Gay-rights groups say the plan is inadequate, and that no units should be allowed to discriminate. Some conservative religious leaders and advocacy groups want the ban to stay in place nationwide.

Both sides are girding for intensive lobbying between now and late May, hoping to influence the outcome.

"Keep the pressure on," was the message Thursday from the Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation to its supporters.

The Human Rights Campaign, a major gay-rights group, said it will caution the BSA's corporate donors that they would lose points in an annual "equality index" if they continued to support the Scouts as long as any units were allowed to exclude gays.

Similar campaigns were being waged by conservative groups seeking to keep the ban in place.

Several groups have joined

Saska-BOOM!

Province is Canada's economic Kevlar vest

While most of the country is feeling economically crunched, with fewer job opportunities and budgets blanketed in red, Saskatchewan is booming.

It's a boom that could help protect the country against a shaky global economy.

"We have what the world wants right now, not just with respect to natural resources, but also in terms of agriculture," said Premier Brad Wall.

Wall highlights a 7.7 per cent growth in exports — the highest rate of growth in the country between November 2011 and November 2012 — saying the province is blessed to rely on multiple resources rather than just one. Currently, Saskatchewan is a major producer of potash, uranium, oil and natural gas, and is a world leader in pulse crops.

In late 2012 the Conference Board of Canada reported that Saskatchewan is poised to have the fastest-growing economy in 2013 and 2014, which boils down to two things: more money and more jobs.

"It's a great quality of life here," said Wall. "When you take a look at the rest of the country, it's very competitive from a cost-of-living standpoint, and there are jobs here that we can offer and jobs that are available right now."

With growth comes growing pains — which Wall said his government is working on keeping to a minimum by way of major investments in infrastructure and appropriate tax exemptions.

Perhaps most important is that the boom is nowhere near slowing down.

"It's continuing.... That's the first thing other Canadians should know: that this is real what's happening here in Saskatchewan," said Wall.

An international spotlight has been shining down on this province's sizzling talent, like soccer dynamo Kaylyn Kyle, pictured here, who claimed bronze at the 2012 Olympics, and Saskatoon rockers The Sheepdogs. Great big art throb

Saskatchewan takes its art seriously. Local talent is fiercely supported by the citizens of the province, which has encouraged musicians, performers and visual artists to put down roots. Five things you didn't know about Saskatchewan

1 Rider pride. Most passionate fans

Riders merch accounts for approximately 70 per cent of all CFL sales. Why wouldn't you want your toothbrush, baby's onesie and golf tees in green and white?

2 Let it shine. Sunniest province

Not only do Saskatchewanians get the most sunrays, the province also has the highest number of hot days (more than 30 C) and one of the clearest skies annually.

3 Time stands still. No DST shift

Saskatchewan stays the same time year-round, the only province to shun daylight savings time. It switches between central and mountain time by simply not "springing ahead" and people like it that way.

Investor activism

Apple sued over cash stockpiling

With its annual meeting looming and its stock on the decline, Apple is facing a rebellion from an activist investor who wants the company to stop stockpiling cash and give it to shareholders instead.

Greenlight Capital said it is suing Apple over the company's proposal to eliminate preferred stock. David Einhorn, who heads the investment fund, said the proposal would close down one avenue for Apple to reward shareholders with more cash.

Apple is still the world's most valuable company, but its stock has lost 35 per cent of its value since September, as it's become obvious that its once-rapid growth has slowed down. The company is fabulously profitable, and Wall Street wants the company to share more of that money with its shareholders rather than tucking it away in low-yielding bank accounts.

"Apple has $145 per share of cash on its balance sheet. As a shareholder, this is your money," Einhorn said in a letter to the company. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'I do not have political ambitions,' Carney says

Central banking. At U.K. confirmation hearing, incoming BoE governor puts rumours to rest

Mark Carney wanted to make one thing perfectly clear Thursday before submitting to his unofficial, and ultimately successful, job interview for governor of the Bank of England — "I do not have political ambitions."

The proof, Carney said, is in his choice of taking on the extremely challenging post as England's top banker.

The statement before his hearing in London was perhaps the most categorical disavowal of any political interest for now, or when he is expected to return to Canada in five years.

The issue arose after it was revealed in December that Carney had been courted for — and in some eyes appeared somewhat interested in — the Liberal leadership, as well as having vacationed in the summer home of the Liberal finance critic during the summer. The speculation in Canada is that Carney would be ready to jump into the political ring after returning from England in 2018.

"I'm surprised it has been suggested that taking one of the most challenging jobs in central banking in another country would be politically advantageous in my home country," he told the Treasury select committee.

"If I had political ambitions, I would have pursued them in Canada and so I think this is revealed preference. I do not have political ambitions."

In what appeared a shocking decision last fall, Carney was hand-picked by U.K. Chancellor George Osborne to take charge of the storied, 319-year-old institution on July 1, the first foreigner to ever do so.

The session began with some uncomfortable questions from chairman Andrew Tyrie, a Conservative MP, including why the Canadian changed his mind after first refusing the offer and whether he was worth his estimated $1.36 million pay packet, including a $390,000 housing allowance.

Carney was asked if he realized that Bank of England staff were under a pay freeze, and would he have taken the job for less? The outgoing Bank of Canada governor responded he did not know about the wage freeze, but added he did not feel the remuneration was excessive. THE CANADIAN PRESS

THIS MIGHT SOUND CHEESY ...

THE LIST
Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

It's officially time for the unofficial list of everything noteworthy or maybe just crazy. If it's worth talking about, it's here. If it's not listed, welp, then don't even think about bringing it up around the watercooler.

1 BillieBie it. Justin Bieber, often the butt of the Metro List, is elevated to No. 1 in honour of being the youngest artist to have five No. 1 albums on the Billboard Top 200. He turns 19 on March 1. Somewhere out there, Mozart's feeling old.

2 A gravy state of affairs. A fire destroys the St. Albert cheese factory, setting off a poutine panic in the nation's capital, as the supply of curds is cut off. Other cheese factories have offered to leap into the breach and produce emergency curds. Meanwhile, that sigh of relief is coming from Ottawa-area arteries.

3 Speaking of clogged arteries. Sen. Mike Duffy is in big trouble for claiming the expense allowance that goes with representing the good people of Prince Edward Island and maintaining a residence on The Gentle Island. The wags are calling him "Senator Come-From-Away," and the opposition demands to know the last time he actually set foot in Cavendish, where he allegedly lives. Mike, who spent many years demanding answers as a national political correspondent, is uncharacteristically silent.

4 Ottawa Babylon. What's with the Senate? Usually little more than a dormitory for burned-out bagmen, the Senate's on fire with scandal. Now Canada's youngest senator, Patrick Brazeau, has been linked to an alleged domestic disturbance and kicked out of the Tory caucus. When unelected political hacks behave badly, I say, "Off with their expense accounts!"

5 Speaking of Prince Edward Island. CreateSpace (owned by Amazon) has reinvented Anne of Green Gables as a blonde, complete with heaving bosom and come-hither look. Huh? Anne fans are not amused. Where are the carrot pigtailed and freckles? And who, exactly, is the world's largest bookseller trying to reach by sexing up the patron saint of P.E.I.? Definitely not your mother's Anne. Maybe your kid brother's?

6 My kingdom for a hearse. The bones of King Richard III, epic Shakespearean villain, are dug up in a parking lot in Leicester, England. His final resting place will likely be a tomb in the more royally suitable Leicester Cathedral. And along with the up-grave, he's getting an image makeover. Turns out the last Plantagenet wasn't a nasty, scheming hunchback after all, but the victim of 16th-century Tudor attack ads.

7 BlackBerries ripe for picking. RIM changed its name to BlackBerry and launched the sleek new Z10 phone, which hit stores in Canada this week. But it won't be on sale in the U.S. until mid-March (where they'll call it the Zee10). Meanwhile, BlackBerry has hired songbird Alicia Keys to spread the musical word across America. Now, if only they can get her to stop tweeting from her iPhone.

8 Year of the Snake. If you've already booted your new year's resolutions, no problem. Lunar New Year, Feb. 10, gives you a chance to reboot. Let's just hope 2013 doesn't turn out like 1929, a previous snake-bit year!

Military training

Going Spartan for S. Korean snow

Around 400 marines from South Korea and the United States shed their shirts in sub-zero temperatures as part of a training exercise near the town of Pyeongchang, 180 kilometres east of Seoul.

To test their limits in extreme conditions, the bare-chested soldiers traversed icy waters and, as pictured, climbed onto each other's shoulders for "cavalry" battle. METRO

Air force parodies Les Misérables

Despite a penchant for serious training, South Korea's armed forces show they can have fun, too.

The country's air force has posted a Les Misérables parody on YouTube, complete with snow-shovelling airmen, a lovesick military conscript and a vengeful superior officer.

The clip, entitled Les Militaribles, has amassed around a million views in just a few days. METRO

Army man's viewpoint

"Through this training session, Marine Corps of South Korea and the U.S. will learn how to adapt to various combat environments, including extreme cold and snow."

Lt.-Col. Lee Keun-soo to the Yonhap News Agency. It is the first time that the marine corps of the two allied nations have held such joint winter drills, officials said.

Jason Bateman and Melissa McCarthy are hardly rational humans in Identity Thief. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

CROUSE AND
MARK BRESLIN

‘Comedy’ a time thief

Identity Thief. Even Jason Bateman and Melissa McCarthy can't save this plastic farce of a plot that hinges on stolen credit cards

Richard: Mark, there is suspension of disbelief. Then there's stretching the limits of believability. And then there is Identity Thief. I don't demand that my movies make perfect sense. Far from it. If I am enjoying the story I'm willing to overlook some leaps in logic. But the plot twists here simply don't work. For one thing, I guess simply cancelling the stolen credit cards lacks comedic possibilities, but it would have been the right thing to do and it would have spared us this mostly unfunny "comedy."

Mark: Richard, this is a very, very broad comedy, and I don't just mean Melissa McCarthy's pants. Frankly, I found it hard to sit through what felt like a bad remake of Trains, Planes and Automobiles with John Candy in drag and assassins just behind. But I don't know which I found more dispiriting — the actors trying to wring a few drops of laughter from the nonsensical yet predictable script or the sentimental relationship between the main characters, which would NEVER, EVER happen if ANY detail of the film were real.

RC: The sickly sentimentality of the last half of the movie — he learns confidence, she gains a conscience — tries to humanize two characters who don't behave like humans. It would be like the Three Stooges unloading onscreen about childhood trauma. You can't make us feel for these characters no matter how often you show McCarthy crying, because there isn't an ounce of authenticity anywhere in the film.

MB: Correct! But what you might feel, as I did, is what a fine actor McCarthy is, even with this bogus material, and how badly you want her to be paired with another script of Bridesmaids quality. As far as Bateman goes, he's Paul Rudd lite, but even Rudd would not have made a difference here. I knew from the early scene with Jon Favreau that there was nothing grounding this flick.

RC: McCarthy's timing is perfect. Over dinner when she's asked, "Do you know what a sociopath is?" She replies, "Do they like ribs?" Not a great gag but her timing sells it. Imagine what she might have done with actual jokes.

MB: Usually in a movie like this one, there's one supporting actor who's rises above the rest of the movie. In

Synopsis

After struggling midlevel executive Sandy Patterson (Jason Bateman) foolishly divulges his credit card information over the phone to Diana (Melissa McCarthy), she steals his identity and quickly racks up five-digit debt on his cards. When the cops in his home state of Colorado inform him they can't do anything unless she comes to Denver, he goes to Florida, finds her and vows to drive her back, across the country, to justice.

Director. Steven Soderbergh

Stars. Rooney Mara, Channing Tatum, Jude Law

If this is in fact to be Steven Soderbergh's final film as a director released in theatres, he's going out on a pretty good note. There are better entries in his filmography — like Traffic or last year's Magic Mike or even Ocean's 11 — but the eclectic director can still count this one as a high point. The twisty, intrigue-filled plot — which we can't go into too much detail about because spoilers abound — has an engaging neo-Hitchcock vibe, but Soderbergh and screenwriter Scott Z. Burns employ one twist too many, making things feel a bit silly at times and keeping the film from being truly spectacular. NED EHRBAR

Actors venture out of their Safe Haven

Safe Haven, starring Julianne Hough and Josh Duhamel, opens in theatres next Friday. HANDOUT

Improving on improv.

Julianne Hough and Josh Duhamel worked their thespian chops under the direction of Lasse Hallström

scene@metronews.ca

In Safe Haven, a new romantic thriller from director Lasse Hallström and writer Nicholas Sparks, Julianne Hough plays a woman on the run from her past, a role she says was “liberating.”

“Everything that I’ve done prior to this has obviously been performance based,” says the star of Footloose and Rock of Ages, “but also very, ‘Here is your mark, stand on it. These are your exact lines and these are the songs you are singing.’”

“This was very freeing for me. I really felt like they hired me to act. I felt like I grew so much in this because it was scary.”

“It is scary to do something that you’ve never done before. I always say that if I’m afraid, I should probably do it. But you’re on your tippytoes because you don’t know what he’s going to say next because a lot of it was improvised.”

The “he” she refers to is Josh Duhamel, who takes a break from playing Lennox in the Transformers movies to take on the role of Hough’s love interest.

“When I first heard of Lasse’s style of shooting, I knew that he liked to be free,” he says.

“It’s liberating but it also forces you to do much more work because if you change it up you still have to know what each scene is about in order to make the whole movie work. You can’t just improv the whole thing because then one scene won’t bleed into the next. They started working two weeks before I did and Julianne was like, ‘It’s great, we improv all day.’ What do you mean we improv all day?!”

“The first scene I did with (co-star) Dave Lyons they had us sitting across the table from each other talking,” Hough chimes in.

“They said, ‘Just talk about anything.’ We literally talked about upside down pineapple cake and nothing made sense, and we were like, ‘What are we doing?’”

A good day for McClane in Moscow?

Die Hard. Bruce Willis reprises his role as a comedic cop — this time blasting his way around Eastern Europe

NED
Metro World News in Hollywood

Bruce Willis is the first to admit that, five movies in, the titles of the Die Hard franchise are getting a bit ridiculous. "We only do another Die Hard when they have another really complicated title that no one quite understands," Willis jokes. "We had just gotten to where we understand (2007's) Live Free or Die Hard, and then now we have A Good Day to Die Hard, which, I have to be honest with you, I'm a little baffled still by that one."

Twenty-five years after the first Die Hard turned Willis from a funny TV guy into a bona fide action star, he's back in A Good Day to Die Hard as Det. John McClane, the wise-cracking New York cop who always manages to be in the wrong place at the wrong time.

Bruce Willis and Jai Courtney star in A Good Day to Die Hard, which opens next Thursday. HANDOUT

This go round, that wrong place is Moscow, where he's tracking down his estranged son (Jai Courtney).

"Moscow was really built for a couple of fish out of water like us. I can't imagine a bigger ocean of non-communication than Eastern Europe and Russia," Willis says. "I don't speak any other languages really. We got a couple jokes out of that. It just opens it up. I like seeing myself not be able to figure things out — not being able to figure out how the car works, not being able to figure out what someone is saying to me. I can hardly understand English."

The fourth film found McClane reconciling with his daughter (Mary Elizabeth Winstead), who has a small part here. With John Jr. featuring in this film, does that mean a sixth might reunite McClane and his wife, Holly, played by Bonnie Bedelia?

"I always think of Bonnie Bedelia and having her coming back," Willis says. "Those things are unfortunately out of my hands. It has to do with the story."

Bedelia, for her part, has been keeping busy on NBC's Parenthood.

Willis is already the fourth member of the Expendables team to hit theatres with a headlining film in 2013, following Arnold Schwarzenegger (The Last Stand), Jason

The origins of yippee-ki-yay

It turns out possibly the most famous line of dialogue in Bruce Willis' career, "yippee-ki-yay, motherf—er," wasn't even in the original Die Hard script. "It was an ad-lib," Bruce Willis admits. "Alan Rickman was such a good bad guy, he was constantly picking on me. He said something to me and I just happen to let that line slip out and it just became part of the fabric of the film. It's just amazing to me that the line has lasted this long. Kids say it to me on the street. Grandmothers. It's a little awkward. But I'm happy that they say it."

Statham (Parker) and Sylvester Stallone (Bullet to the Head). But Willis isn't concerned with how his latest outing will stack up against his colleagues'. "I don't compete with anyone. I compete with myself," he says.

"I wish everyone well. I'm still a big film fan. I still go to see other action films and I go to see comedies and all kinds of weird things. There is no competition."

CBS bans breasts, all things fun from Grammys

Dress code. Network proves that it stands for Can't Bare Skin with its new policy for celebrities attending this year's show

GEORGANTOPOULOS
Metro World News

Who would have thought the 55th Annual Grammy Awards would have a strict dress code?

With award show season in full swing, the Grammys is supposed to be the fun show. At the Grammys, it is acceptable for stars to let loose. It's not like at the Oscars where the atmosphere is a little stuffier.

This year, though, musicians might need to rethink their wardrobe. CBS Standard and Practice is instilling a strict no boobs, no butts policy.

This is the email that went out by the S&P department

Too bootylicious for ya babe

"Please be sure that buttocks and female breasts are adequately covered. Thong-type costumes are problematic. Please avoid exposing bare fleshly under curves of the buttocks and buttock crack."

CBS Standard and Practice department

via Deadline:

"CBS Program Practices advises that all talent appearing on camera please adhere to Network policy concerning wardrobe. Please be sure that buttocks and female breasts are adequately covered. Thong-type costumes are problematic. Please avoid exposing bare fleshly under curves of the buttocks and buttock crack. Bare sides or under curvature of the breasts is also problematic. Please avoid sheer see-through clothing that could possibly expose female breast nipples. Please be sure the genital region is adequately covered so that there is no visible 'puffy' bare skin exposure. Please avoid commercial identification of actual brand name products on T-shirts. Foreign language on wardrobe will need to be cleared."

Got that, ladies? No thongs. CBS is taking this situation seriously. They're not even allowing foreign language on clothes unless it's been cleared.

Our strict, private high school was more fun than the Grammys. What can we say, c'est la vie — that's 'such is life' for you, CBS.

Everyday is Valentine's Day for Slumdog couple

Slumdog Millionaire co-stars Dev Patel and Freida Pinto, who have been dating for four years, don't have anything special planned for Valentine's Day this year — or any year — they tell Us Weekly.

"I actually am not a big Valentine's Day supporter," Pinto says. "I don't really celebrate it." Which leaves the perfect opening for Patel to prove what a great boyfriend he is: "Everyday should be a celebration of love," he says. Top that, gentlemen.

David Beckham

Beckham's pink kicks draw lots of attention

David Beckham has been spotted on the field lately sporting a pair of pink sneakers, which got the attention of a few fans.

During a Twitter chat for clothing retailer H&M, the soccer star acknowledged his love for the interesting footwear choice when a fan asked which sneakers were his favourite. "That would have to be my current Adidas boots," Beckham replied. "They are pink, which I chose because of (baby daughter) Harper."

Beckham also revealed that he expects his family will be spending a "huge amount of time in the U.S. in the future" despite a recent move back to England.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

'No one commits a crime because they saw a film,' Willis says

Bruce Willis, star of many bullet-ridden films, thinks it's a mistake to try to link violence in entertainment with real-life shootings like the recent incidents in Aurora, Colo., and Newtown, Conn.

"No one commits a crime because they saw a film. There's nothing to support that," Willis tells the Associated Press. "We're not making movies about people that have gone berserk, or gone nuts. Those kind of movies wouldn't last very long at all." Furthermore, Willis isn't a fan of more gun control legislation.

"I think that you can't start to pick apart anything out of the Bill of Rights without thinking that it's all going to become undone," he says. "If you take one out or change one law, then why wouldn't they take all your rights away from you?" METRO WORLD NEWS

Spielberg got it wrong, Conn. congressman alleges

At least one congressman is challenging Steven Spielberg's fact-checking for Lincoln, arguing that the film's depiction of two Connecticut legislators voting against the amendment to abolish slavery is incorrect, according to the Hartford Courant.

"How could congressmen from Connecticut — a state that supported President Lincoln and lost thousands of her sons fighting against slavery on the Union side of the Civil War — have been on the wrong side of history?" Connecticut Rep. Joe Courtney asks. "The state's good name, I personally feel, was tarnished a bit." Courtney is asking that Spielberg alter the film to reflect this before its DVD release.

Lindsay Lohan

Lohan keeping calm and carrying on

Despite her ongoing legal troubles and reports of her being difficult to work with, Lindsay Lohan insists she's keeping calm and carrying on. So what's her secret?

"Family," she tells E! News. "You can't get through anything without the family. Family is everything."

Lohan, it should be noted, has had public meltdowns with her mom, Dina Lohan, in recent months, and her dad, Michael Lohan, has been pushing on numerous occasions for an intervention and rehab for his daughter.

This one is for all the lovers in the world. Well, at least for all you guys out there who haven't realized that Valentine's Day is this coming Thursday.

Why didn't Cupid just make V-Day the second Sunday of February so we could cook up an easy breakfast in bed for our sweeties accompanied by a glass of bubbly?

That would be too easy. This year, it's a weekday. So, if you're not going out on the town to show your devotion, at least bring her home (or him, girls) a bottle that's the liquid equivalent of an Enrique Iglesias album.

It wouldn't hurt if that vino paired well with a heart-shaped box of bonbons. Chocolate is a palate coating confection, so many wines lose their nuance when paired with it.

Reds work best, with Old Vine Zinfandels, ripe and ready Pinot Noirs and plump, thick-fruited Merlots all having a natural sweetness that gives them the edge if you're trying to match one wine with a variety of chocolate styles.

J. Lohr Estates' 2010 Los Osos Merlot ($19.95 to $22.99) from California's Paso Robles is a chewy burst of deep berry fruit that definitely brings the love.

PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Easy romantic dinner frees up time for love

Crab and Hearts of Palm Gratin with Arugula Salad. Make-ahead dish won't keep you in the kitchen

Not planning to go out for Valentine's Day? Time to start planning a special menu for a romantic night in.

This dish is warm, comforting and rich with flavours that say "you're special." It cooks up in a gratin dish, so you can assemble it ahead of time, then when you're ready to eat, just pop it in the oven.

While the gratin bakes, assemble the salad and serve everything together with a crusty baguette.

1. Heat oven to 375 F. Place 2 shallow individual-sized casserole or gratin dishes on baking sheet.

2. Chop artichoke hearts and hearts of palm into 1/2-inch pieces. In bowl, stir artichokes and hearts of palm with thyme, lemon zest, cream, fontina, white pepper and crab. Spoon mixture into the gratin dishes.

3. In bowl, stir breadcrumbs, paprika, salt and melted butter. Sprinkle over gratins. Bake 30 minutes, or until bubbling.

4. While gratins bake, make salad. In medium bowl, whisk olive oil, vinegar, mustard and maple syrup. Add arugula, cherries and almonds and gently toss to coat. Serve topped with sea salt and black pepper. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Curling

Dacey falls to host rink at Tankard

Peter Burgess desperately needed a win, and he got it.

Burgess and his host Truro curling club four-some of mate Craig Burgess, second Jared Bent and lead Todd Burgess, kept his slim playoff hopes alive Thursday with a crucial 6-4 victory over Mayflower's Mark Dacey at the Molson Coors Tankard provincial men's curling championship on Thursday night.

The result lifted Burgess to 2-3 as he enters play Friday against CFB Halifax's Alan O'Leary at 2 p.m.

"Anytime you beat Mark Dacey it's a pretty good day," Burgess said. "It felt good."

In other action Thursday night, defending champion Jamie Murphy, of Lakeshore, defeated O'Leary 7-4, while Flemming defeated Mayflower's Ian Juurlink 8-1. Mayflower's Chad Stevens nipped clubmate Shea Steele 6-5.

Rainmen look to make it 3 in a row

The Halifax Rainmen will aim for their first three-game winning streak since Dec. 1 when they hit the road to take on the Montreal Jazz on Friday at 7 p.m.

In their only matchup of the season, the Rainmen (15-15) recorded a lopsided 122-77 victory over the Jazz at the Metro Centre on Dec. 30.

The Rainmen, who sit in second place in the Atlantic Division, will travel to Moncton to face the Miracles on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Halifax Mooseheads forward Nathan MacKinnon is hoping to enact some revenge on the Moncton Wildcats.

The last time the 17-year-old and his linemates Jonathan Drouin and Martin Frk faced the Wildcats (33-17-1) they fell to 3-0 on the road. That was back on Nov. 25, before the trio departed for the world junior tryout camps.

Ever since, the loss has left a bad taste in MacKinnon's mouth.

"For us we just really want to get them back," said MacKinnon, speaking on behalf of his linemates. "They have a tough team, but at the same time I think we can get the win and it's going to be fun."

The game on Friday will air nationally on Sportsnet at 8 p.m. For MacKinnon, that only adds fuel to the fire.

"It definitely adds something to the game. It will be a great atmosphere. We're looking to have some fun."

Halifax (42-5-2-1) has won its last three games and sits comfortable atop the QMJHL standings. But Moncton has been on a roll since acquiring Phillip Danault from the Victoriaville Tigres on Jan. 8, winning nine of its last 10 games. Mooseheads defenceman MacKenzie Weegar is approaching the game as seriously as his first-line teammates.

"It's going to be a playoff game and we have to be willing to do all of the things we have to do, get all of the little things right to get the win," he said.

The Mooseheads will have less than 24 hours to regroup and welcome the Bathurst Titan (21-27-5-1) to the Metro Centre on Saturday at 7 p.m.

"It's definitely nice that the game is televised, but I really approach every game the same way: Be prepared, be focused and do the things that I have to do to give us a chance to win," said Fucule.

Warm welcome awaits Olympians

Countdown to Sochi.

Weather could prove to be a stumbling block at next Winter Games

The Sochi Olympics are a year away and already there are worries about Circassian Muslim unrest, transportation headaches and even earthquakes.

But the weather may be the biggest hurdle to overcome for Russia to claim a success story.

If you thought the 2010 Vancouver Games had issues, just wait.

"In Canada, if somebody said, 'Pick the least likely place for a Winter Games,' I would have picked Vancouver and, in Russia, I would have picked Sochi," says Environment Canada's senior climatologist David Phillips.

"I think we think we can fool Mother Nature sometimes."

Think of Sochi as Russia's Florida, festooned with palm trees and located on the northeastern coast of the Black Sea, just a little north of Turkey and northeast of Greece. The climate is classified as subtropical.

Phillips looked at data both for Sochi and the ski resort of Krasnaya Polyana and compared them with Vancouver and Whistler.

The city will be the site of the "coastal cluster," as organizers have dubbed it, for arena-based sports, while the "mountain cluster" will host skiing, snowboarding and bobsledding events. Each will have its own Olympic village.

"In Sochi you can enjoy a warm southern sea as well as high, snow-covered mountains," organizers boast.

Guay gives course the thumbs-down

Defending champion Erik Guay of Canada criticized the men's downhill course at the world ski championships in Schladming, Austria, after training on Thursday, calling one of the jumps "way too big."

Guay said he hurt his back while landing after the 30-metre jump.

"That's ridiculous,"

Guay said. "Any course you should be able to push in the first training run and not have to worry about injuries like that."

The height of the jump was causing problems because racers land on a flat part of the slope, he said.

FIS men's race director Guenter Hujara said course workers would try to slightly lower the jump ahead of Friday's second training.

"It's very difficult there. We can't take it down too far," Hujara said.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

It's OK to get angry if someone has done you wrong but don't take it too far and turn it into a vendetta. It may be frustrating that you can't seem to change their ways but that's just the way it is. Live with it.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Read between the lines if you want to find out what is really going on. Once you have cracked the code, you can use what you learn to strengthen your own position. Are we talking blackmail here? Maybe!

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Your intuition is trying to tell you something important but the rational part of your mind refuses to accept it. Turn your logic circuits off for a bit and let the deeper part of your nature come through.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Be nice to partners and loved ones today because you will need their assistance over the weekend. Think before you speak or act. Try to see what effect your words might have. It never hurts to look ahead.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The planets will expand your horizons today and help you find interesting things in even the most tedious of tasks. It's not what you do that matters so much as the attitude you choose to take while doing it.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Today's Mars-Mercury link in your opposite sign may make it seem as if the world is against you but you know it's not true. End this week and start the next in the same fashion: Don't take anything too seriously.

♏ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You will be rather suspicious as to other people's motives today, to the extent that you turn down their offers of assistance. Later on, you may look back and wish you had not been quite so distrustful.

♐ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Certain people need reminding that you are a free individual and not a servant to be used as they see fit. If your present work environment does not suit you, it's time to change it.

♑ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Put your own needs first and ignore those who say you are being selfish. Maybe you are but there were plenty of times in the past when you sacrificed your own desires to help other people. Remind them of that.

♒ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Try not to be suspicious if a rival pays you a compliment. According to the planets, they are making a genuine attempt to bury the hatchet. Respond in kind and show them you appreciate the effort.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

If you rely on what other people tell you today, chances are you will head off in completely the wrong direction. The words people use are important, of course, but trust your intuition if it tells you something different.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Mars in your sign makes you determined to get the most out of every minute, and that's good, but don't throw yourself blindly at every challenge that comes along. Your time and energy are precious, so use them wisely. SALLY BROMPTON
